Portfolio Commentary

The HM1 portfolio fell 1.4% over the month of May. Global markets and sectors were flat to down over the month except for ongoing rises in the technology sector. The local ASX 200 was down 3%, the broad-based S&P 500 finished flat, and the MSCI World Net TR Index (AUD) up 1.1%. Since inception in November 2018, the HM1 portfolio has delivered an annualised pre-tax investment return of 8.6% pa.

Major tech stocks were the only bright spot in an otherwise subdued market during May. Investors crowded into the large tech stocks driven by the AI frenzy propelling the NASDAQ composite up 5.8% for the month. Our holdings in tech and chip stocks benefitted from this rally with increases in TSMC and AMSL both up 17%, Amazon up 14% and Microsoft up 7%.

NextDC announced new data centre developments in Malaysia and New Zealand during May and conducted a capital raising to fund construction. HM1 participated in the institutional capital raise which was well supported by the market as the push into South-East Asia is seen as an additional growth option for NextDC. NextDC also benefitted from the scramble to get exposure to AI related stocks as it provides compute capacity for its clients.

Offsetting these increases were falls in commodity stocks and China exposed stocks, with CIA down 7%, BHP down 5% and China Duty Free down 36% over the month. China Duty Free released their Q1 results during the month. Revenue was up strongly (+24%) in line with forecasts, however, costs were higher than expected and the stock was marked down. It is still early days in the China re-opening story and the economic activity and tourism revenue are expected to pick up in coming months.

As promised in last month's update we have included a more detailed analysis of one of the larger positions in the fund, Mastercard. We sat down with Nikki Thomas from Magellan last week and discussed the three stocks that Magellan contributes to HM1. These are currently Mastercard, Microsoft and Intercontinental Exchange. Click here to read their Mastercard analysis.

As a reminder, we currently have seven Core Fund Managers who each provide their highest conviction stock recommendations for the HM1 portfolio. We look forward to bringing the rest of the portfolio to life in the coming months. These high-quality fund managers are currently Caledonia Investments, Cooper Investors, Magellan, Munro Partners, Regal Funds Management, Tribeca Investment Partners and TDM Growth Partners.
